

How is Cascade Memorial different from traditional funeral homes that we've known in the past?

Cascade Memorial is a unique type of business that offers everything a traditional funeral home offers, with the exception of having a large, expensive funeral home building. Although traditional funeral homes can be beautiful facilities, we have found many Northwest families simply do not want the added expense and many times they prefer a "less traditional" approach to planning their final needs. Because we operate in more conservative, yet professional offices, we are able to offer services which are generally less than half the cost of traditional funeral homes. We can save you money!

Where does cremation take place?

At Cascade Memorial, we own and operate our own private cremation facility. Families find comfort in knowing that our cremation facility is privately owned and used exclusively by our company, while most providers subcontract cremation services. It is simple, because we are a totally self-sufficient company, we involve fewer people and offer lower prices.
